Detail Report of Workshop:

Title: Webinar on keep a goal and work on it

Resource person: Ms. Supriya Yeole, Software Engineer HSBC Software development, Pune.

Students have attended this workshop: 72

About workshop:

In the lives of all individuals at some point of time, they do feel worried and concerned about their careers, job opportunities that are available to them and their future lives. When a child is young and is about to get enrolled in a preparatory school, then his parents feel anxious that which would be the best play school for their child to get admitted into, hence they seek guidance and counselling regarding the bringing up of their child in an improved manner from experts, professionals and even their close friends and relatives, therefore, at the initial stage also counselling and guidance is essential for the child and his parents. When the child reaches the age of ten years and above and is pursuing his formal schooling, then there are different subjects that he has to study such as mathematics, social science, science, English, Hindi, and also gets involved in other extracurricular activities such as art and craft, music, singing, dancing, sports and so forth; these extracurricular activities may take place in schools or even in other organizations outside school; all the academic areas and extracurricular activities for the children may not always take place in a smooth manner, they do face problems and difficulties, which may aggravate or upset them, therefore, in order to solve their problems they seek counselling and guidance from tutors, instructors, parents, relatives, friends and other professionals for the main purpose of improving their performance and doing well in all the activities that they are engaged into. Therefore, it has been understood that counselling and guidance is also imperative for children who are young and teenagers.

Conclusion: Career guidance will help the students to fulfil their aspirations by setting up realistic goals.
